U.S. SENATORS SEEK CONTROL OF CIA ACTIVITYWarsaw PAP International Service in English 0712 GMT 26 January 1966--L

(Text) Warsaw, 26 January--ZOLNIERZ WOLNOSCI has this to say in an article, entitled "Will Congress Get to Know the Secrets of the Invisible Government?": Many events in the past as well as the role of CIA agents in the Dominican Republic and in Vietnam indicate that the independence of the American espionage service is welcomed by the Washington administration. Since the policy of the "big stick" has again become official U.S. doctrine, complete harmony exists between the "covert" and "overt" U.S. governments.

That is why the prospects for the success of the initiative by Senators McCarthy and Young, who would like to establish a congressional committee to control the activities of the intelligence agency, are slim. One can imagine how humorous the motion by Senator Young must have seemed when he said that Congress should control not only the finances of the CIA and the efficiency of its intelligence activities but should also have the right to investigate whether these activities undermine the basic principles of American morality.
